MSc in International Health and Tropical Medicine

Since October 2015, the Centre for Tropical Medicine & Global Health, Nuffield Department of Medicine, has been running an exciting MSc in International Health and Tropical Medicine. This is a full time one year Masters course that focuses on Global Health issues as they pertain to resource limited contexts. We have an estimated 20 students per year from diverse geographic and disciplinary backgrounds. The course includes modules covering methodologies, disease burden and policies related to international health and tropical medicine. The course draws on the many areas of excellence within the Centre for Tropical Medicine as well as other departments and divisions at across Oxford University.

For more information about the course, please visit:

The role

This post is an Oxford-based post aimed at facilitating research and teaching links between the Oxford Tropical Network (OTN) and Social Sciences across Oxford University with teaching focused on the MSc in International Health and Tropical Medicine.

You will be part of the growing MSc in International Health and Tropical Medicine team supporting teaching on the Masters.

Centre for Tropical Medicine and Global Health

It is expected that this post will provide a platform for longer term funding applications independently or in collaboration with other senior scientists. We would support and encourage the writing of peer reviewed journal articles, presenting work at international meetings and the development of research proposals.

Responsibilities

- Support and teach on the MSc as needed, including mentoring MSc students and supervising Masters Theses
- Lead on academic writing support for MSc students
- Serve on academic committees such as the examination committee, admissions committee, course organising committee and placement committee
- Contribute to and support teaching on health economics/health systems
- Actively explore possibilities for teaching and research collaborations between the OTN and other departments across the University.
- Participate in new research and collaborative projects with colleagues in partner schools / departments / institutions across Oxford, within the UK and internationally.
- Write research articles for peer-reviewed journals and contribute to articles and reviews with collaborators. Present work at international conferences, and lead seminars to disseminate research findings.
- Represent the MSc in International Health and Tropical Medicine and/or at external meetings/seminars, either with other members of the group or alone

Selection criteria

- Hold a relevant PhD /DPhil (intersecting health and social sciences)
- Demonstrated interest in health research in low income settings
- Track record of bridging disciplinary gaps and working with interdisciplinary research teams
- Ability to work in a multi-cultural and multi-disciplinary partnership
- Familiarity with a wide range of methodologies employed in social and health sciences (including both qualitative and quantitative research)
- Ability to independently plan and manage a research project
- Ability to raise research funds through making grant applications
- Ability to work relatively independently to achieve agreed goals and to foster development of productive collaborations
- Teaching experience at the post-graduate level

Centre for Tropical Medicine and Global Health

Desirable selection criteria

- Publication record appropriate for the level of qualification
- Experience managing a research budget
- Experience of making grant applications
- Interest in co-supervising doctoral students

About the University of Oxford

Welcome to the University of Oxford. We aim to lead the world in research and education for the benefit of society both in the UK and globally. Oxford's researchers engage with academic, commercial and cultural partners across the world to stimulate high-quality research and enable innovation through a broad range of social, policy and economic impacts.

We believe our strengths lie both in empowering individuals and teams to address fundamental questions of global significance, while providing all our staff with a welcoming and inclusive workplace that enables everyone to develop and do their best work. Recognising that diversity is our strength, vital for innovation and creativity, we aspire to build a truly diverse community which values and respects every individual's unique contribution.

While we have long traditions of scholarship, we are also forward-looking, creative and cutting-edge. Oxford is one of Europe's most entrepreneurial universities. Income from external research contracts in 2016/17 exceeded £564m and we rank first in the UK for university spin-outs, with more than 130 companies created to date. We are also recognised as leaders in support for social enterprise.

Join us and you will find a unique, democratic and international community, a great range of staff benefits and access to a vibrant array of cultural activities in the beautiful city of Oxford.

Important information for candidates

Pre-employment screening

Please note that the appointment of the successful candidate will be subject to standard pre-employment screening, as applicable to the post. This will include right-to-work, proof of identity and references. We advise all applicants to read the candidate notes on the University's pre-employment screening procedures, found at:

www.ox.ac.uk/about/jobs/preemploymentscreening/.

Data Privacy

Please note that any personal data submitted to the University as part of the job application process will be processed in accordance with the GDPR and related UK data protection legislation. For further information, please see the University's Privacy Notice for Job Applicants at: www.admin.ox.ac.uk/councilsec/compliance/gdpr/privacynotices/job/. The University's Policy on Data Protection is available at:

www.admin.ox.ac.uk/councilsec/compliance/gdpr/universitypolicyondataprotection/.

The University's policy on retirement

The University operates an Employer Justified Retirement Age (EJRA) for all academic posts and some academic-related posts. From 1 October 2017, the University has adopted an EJRA of 30 September before the 69th birthday for all academic and academic-related staff in posts at grade 8 and above. The justification for this is explained at:

www.admin.ox.ac.uk/personnel/end/retirement/acrelretire8+/.

For existing employees, any employment beyond the retirement age is subject to approval through the procedures: www.admin.ox.ac.uk/personnel/end/retirement/acrelretire8+/.

From 1 October 2017, there is no normal or fixed age at which staff in posts at grades 1–7 have to retire. Staff at these grades may elect to retire in accordance with the rules of the applicable pension scheme, as may be amended from time to time.

Equality of Opportunity

Centre for Tropical Medicine and Global Health

Entry into employment with the University and progression within employment will be determined only by personal merit and the application of criteria which are related to the duties of each particular post and the relevant salary structure. In all cases, ability to perform the job will be the primary consideration. No applicant or member of staff shall be discriminated against because of age, disability, gender reassignment, marriage or civil partnership, pregnancy or maternity, race, religion or belief, sex, or sexual orientation.
