

BLAVATNIK SCHOOL OF GOVERNMENT

Summary

Job title	Postdoctoral Research Fellow in Public Policy (Quantitative Methods)
Division	Social Sciences
Department	Blavatnik School of Government
Location	Radcliffe Observatory Quarter, Woodstock Road, Oxford, OX2 6GG
Grade and salary	Grade 7: £36,024 - £39,347 per annum, dependent on experience. Pro-rated for part-time appointments
Hours	Full time. Part-time applicants (minimum 0.8 FTE) will also be considered
Contract type	Fixed-term for 12 months
Reporting to	Dr Thomas Elston
Vacancy reference	171804
Additional information	The closing date for applications is 12 noon (UK time) on Monday 24 June 2024. Ideally, the individual will start in September 2024.

The role

The Blavatnik School of Government is seeking to appoint an exceptional Postdoctoral Research Fellow to join a new project funded by the Netherlands Court of Audit and led by Dr Thomas Elston (University of Oxford) and Dr Yuxi Zhang (University College London). The successful candidate will join an international and multidisciplinary team using advanced quantitative methods to examine the effect of the Court's activities on the ministries and agencies of the Dutch Government, extending earlier similar work in the UK context (more information is available here).

The Postdoctoral Research Fellow will have first-rate skills in econometrics, and graduate training in political science, sociology, public policy and/or management. The postholder will be based in Oxford, but occasional travel to London, The Hague, and elsewhere will also be necessary.

The role would suit an early-career researcher with an outstanding training in quantitative social science and an interest in applying these techniques to novel research problems in the field of government and public policy. In particular, a track record of using advanced quantitative methods (e.g. in a PhD thesis), and either knowledge of or interest in survival analysis and multi-level modelling, are essential.

The Postdoctoral Research Fellow must also have advanced proficiency in Dutch, and be comfortable working with administrative data written in Dutch and conversing with other members of the research team in both English and Dutch. Finally, they should have a keen eye for detail, be proactive about identifying and solving problems, be a clear and effective writer, and have an interest in applied/policy-relevant research.

The contract is offered for 12 months, with possibility of extension depending on funding.

We expect the successful candidate to start in September 2024, or as soon as possible thereafter.

Responsibilities

- Manage own academic research and administrative activities. This involves small-scale project management, to co-ordinate multiple aspects of work to meet deadlines.
- Adapt existing and develop new research methodologies and materials.
- Prepare working theories and analyse qualitative and/or quantitative data from a variety of sources, reviewing and refining theories as appropriate.
- Contribute ideas for new research projects.
- Develop ideas for generating research income, and present detailed research proposals to senior researchers.
- Collaborate in the preparation of research publications and book chapters.
- Present papers at conferences or public meetings.
- Act as a source of information and advice to other members of the group on methodologies or procedures.
- Represent the research group at external meetings/seminars, either with other members of the group or alone.
- Carry out collaborative projects with colleagues in partner institutions, and research groups.

Selection criteria

Essential selection criteria

- Hold, or be close to completion of, a PhD/DPhil in a field relevant to the project, together with relevant experience.
- Advanced proficiency (at C1 level) in both spoken and written Dutch.
- Possess sufficient specialist knowledge in the discipline to work within established research programmes.

- Ability to manage own academic research and associated activities.
- Previous experience of contributing to publications/presentations.
- Ability to contribute ideas for new research projects and research income generation.
- Excellent communication skills, including the ability to write for publication, present research proposals and results, and represent the research group at meetings.

Desirable selection criteria

- Experience of independently managing a discrete area of a research project
- Experience of actively collaborating in the development of research articles for publication.

Pre-employment screening

Standard checks

If you are offered the post, the offer will be subject to standard pre-employment checks. You will be asked to provide: proof of your right-to-work in the UK; proof of your identity; and (if we haven't done so already) we will contact the referees you have nominated. If you have previously worked for the University we will also verify key information such as your dates of employment and reason for leaving your previous role with the department/unit where you worked. You will also be asked to complete a health declaration so that you can tell us about any health conditions or disabilities for which you may need us to make appropriate adjustments.

Please read the candidate notes on the University's pre-employment screening procedures at: <https://www.jobs.ox.ac.uk/pre-employment-checks>

About the University of Oxford

Welcome to the University of Oxford. We aim to lead the world in research and education for the benefit of society both in the UK and globally. Oxford's researchers engage with academic, commercial and cultural partners across the world to stimulate high-quality research and enable innovation through a broad range of social, policy and economic impacts.

We believe our strengths lie both in empowering individuals and teams to address fundamental questions of global significance, while providing all our staff with a welcoming and inclusive workplace that enables everyone to develop and do their best work. Recognising that diversity is our strength, vital for innovation and creativity, we aspire to build a truly diverse community which values and respects every individual's unique contribution.

While we have long traditions of scholarship, we are also forward-looking, creative and cutting-edge.
