Division	Social Sciences
Department	Politics and International Relations
Location	Manor Road Building, Manor Road, Oxford, OX1 3UQ
Grade and salary	Grade 7: £36,024 - £44,263 per annum (pro-rata for part-time)
Hours	Part-time (0.3 FTE)
Contract type	Fixed-term for 7 months
Reporting to	Dr Edward Brooks
Vacancy reference	174049
Additional information	Closing date: midday (UK time) on Monday 9 September 2024 Interviews will be held as soon as possible thereafter.

The role

The Postdoctoral Researcher will report to the Dr Edward Brooks and work closely with the Lead Researcher, consultants, and research assistants on the project titled “Character-based Leadership Development Among University Students in Low- and Middle-Income Countries (LMICs).” The primary focus of this role is to contribute to research on character-based leadership development in LMIC universities, including collecting and analysing data, writing, and disseminating findings. The post holder will play a key role in managing specific research tasks and providing guidance to project consultants and research assistants.

Responsibilities

- Independently manage research activities, including coordinating data collection efforts and other project tasks.
- Design and implement data collection strategies, including surveys and interviews.
- Analyse qualitative and quantitative data using appropriate statistical and analytical tools.
- Use graphic design software to create data visualisations that effectively communicate research findings.
- Write up research results for publication in academic journals and draft dissemination materials, including reports and presentations.
- Work collaboratively with the Lead Researcher, project consultants, and research assistants to ensure the alignment of project activities and goals.
- Present research findings at national and international conferences, seminars, and workshops.
- Provide guidance and support to project consultants and research assistants.

Selection criteria

Essential

- Hold or be close to completion of a relevant PhD/DPhil in humanities or social sciences.
- Familiarity with qualitative and quantitative research methods, including data gathering, statistical analysis, and data visualisation.
- Proficiency in using graphic design software for creating professional research presentations and visualisations.
- Strong written and oral communication skills and experience contributing to academic publications and presenting research findings.

- Ability to work independently and manage multiple tasks, demonstrating strong research management and organisational skills.
- Experience working in multicultural environments and sensitivity to diverse cultural contexts.

Desirable

- Familiarity with one or more of the regions involved in the research (Africa, Asia, and Latin America) and an understanding of their specific educational and cultural contexts.
- Familiarity with character and leadership research, particularly in educational settings.

Pre-employment screening

Standard checks

If you are offered the post, the offer will be subject to standard pre-employment checks. You will be asked to provide: proof of your right-to-work in the UK; proof of your identity; and (if we haven't done so already) we will contact the referees you have nominated. You will also be asked to complete a health declaration so that you can tell us about any health conditions or disabilities for which you may need us to make appropriate adjustments.

Please read the candidate notes on the University's pre-employment screening procedures at: <https://www.jobs.ox.ac.uk/pre-employment-checks>

About the University of Oxford

Welcome to the University of Oxford. We aim to lead the world in research and education for the benefit of society both in the UK and globally. Oxford's researchers engage with academic, commercial and cultural partners across the world to stimulate high-quality research and enable innovation through a broad range of social, policy and economic impacts.

We believe our strengths lie both in empowering individuals and teams to address fundamental questions of global significance, while providing all our staff with a welcoming and inclusive workplace that enables everyone to develop and do their best work. Recognising that diversity is our strength, vital for innovation and creativity, we aspire to build a truly diverse community which values and respects every individual's unique contribution.

While we have long traditions of scholarship, we are also forward-looking, creative and cutting-edge. Oxford is one of Europe's most entrepreneurial universities and we rank first in the UK for university spinouts, and in recent years we have spun out 15-20 new companies every year. We are also recognised as leaders in support for social enterprise.

Join us and you will find a unique, democratic and international community, a great range of staff benefits and access to a vibrant array of cultural activities in the beautiful city of Oxford.

Department of Politics and International Relations

Politics and International Relations at Oxford University have a long and distinguished history in the education of leading figures in academia, politics, the media and public life, both in the UK and internationally. Teaching and research activities in this area were combined in 2000 to create a Department of Politics and International Relations. With around 90 academic staff, the Department is one of the largest departments internationally and consistently ranks first in The Times and The Guardian university guides for the subject. It is home to major research projects, a vibrant community of academic visitors, and a strong group of post-doctoral researchers, supported by highly competitive research fellowships, working in the full range of disciplinary sub-fields.

The department attracts some of the best academics in the field to work here as permanent faculty, as part of major research projects or as academic visitors. There is a strong post-doctoral group supported by highly competitive research fellowships and working across a broad range of fields.

DPIR
DEPARTMENT OF POLITICS &
INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS

The Department is located in the Social Sciences building at Manor Road, along with the Department of Economics, the Centres for Criminology and Socio-Legal Studies, and the integrated Social Science Library. The building provides excellent facilities including a lecture theatre, a large computer laboratory and a range of seminar rooms as well as a cafeteria and common room for use by both staff and students. The Manor Road Building is served by a shared IT and web team.

An experienced Professional Services function supports the department's research and teaching activities. The department's core Professional Service is grouped into teams that provide dedicated support for: Courses, Research, Finance, HR, and Communications & Alumni Relations. The administrative teams work closely with each other as well as with staff in other parts of the University, in particular with the Social Sciences division, Personnel Services, and Research Services, as well as with the University's many colleges.
